

I stongly favor suscriber options EVEN if it means higher rates as companies allege. Allowing consumers to delete unwelcomed cable channels seems like a logical right of choice rather than having a line-up dictated. Let the marketplace rule except for public access channels.